Evacuation

Some emergency situations, such as a hazardous materials incident, will require you to evacuate the area so you are removed from danger. If you are advised by local authorities to evacuate, listen carefully to the instructions provided to make sure the evacuation order applies to you.

A decision to evacuate is made to save lives—do not ignore it!

Take your Grab and Go Bag and follow any additional instructions provided by emergency responders. Remember to take your pets with you!

Shelter-in-Place

Sheltering-in-Place is the practice of remaining safely indoors during an outdoor release of a hazardous substance. It has been shown to be the most effective response during the first few hours of a substance release where the public would be at higher risk outdoors.

A decision to Shelter-in-Place is made to save lives—do not ignore it!

- Go inside immediately and bring pets with you.
- Close all doors and windows.
- Shut down furnace, A/C and exhaust fans or vents.
- Close fireplace dampers
- Seal doors and windows and place wet towel at base of doors.
- Monitor media for updates.
- If you must travel outside, cover your nose and mouth with a wet towel.
